Invitation

Dear colleagues and friends,

Jalandhar is one of the oldest city in Punjab. In the recent years there has been rapid urbanisation and it has developed into a industrialised centre of commercial activity besides an educational hub. We are sure that Jalandhar will soon be a centre of medical tourism.

It gives us immense pleasure to inform you that department of Medicine and department of Microbiology of Punjab Institute of Medical Sciences, Jalandhar are jointly organising CME on 'Infectious Diseases' in collaboration with Clinical Infectious Diseases Society of India on 01 April 2017.

We have organised a few eminent speakers from various institutes of the country including CIDS of India. Selected topics of interest will keep us updated with the latest on the subject. Post graduates will get an opportunity to present their poster.

We are looking forward for your active participation to make the event memorable and successful. Kindly do come and join us at our institution at Jalandhar for enriching and rewarding experience.
